

Finally, we can sit down and have a family dinner without being interrupted by telemarketers calling and being rude when you ask them not to call back. It ruins the happiness we strive to bring to the dinner table; the only place we can all be together with our different scheduals. Please don't change our law.